Wednesday 15th August, 2018

Today we travel south with a stop enroute for morning tea (included) and lunch (own expense), before making our way to Sydney. We check with plenty of time to unpack and freshen up before our dinner and show at the Sydney Lyric Theatre, Star City Casino. Drawing from the dark humour made Parker and Stone household names, The Book of Mormon follows two Mormon missionaries as they attempt to spread the word of the Mormon faith to a fictional tribe in Uganda. The show effortlessly manages to skewer organised religion, Mormonism and music theatre itself in a satirical, but occasionally offensive, song and dance routine. In Australia a variety of US performers have been flown in to play the show's two leads. Casting for the Sydney season is yet to be announced. The Australian production was nominated for a swag of Helpmann Awards and took home the awards for best musical and best direction. Winner of 9 Tony awards and described as "the best musical ever written" by The New York Times' notoriously tough critic Ben Brantley, the show has managed to thrive despite its controversial themes and frequent use of profanities, and has even been embraced by the Mormon Church. After the show we transfer back to our hotel. Overnight: Great Southern Hotel, 717 George St, Sydney. Ph. 02 9289 4414
